* The Indian Secretary Commission, Calcutta, India. After this date the Commission will maintain its own office in India, where further memoranda will be received as in the past. They should be sent by registered post addressed to "The Indian Secretary Commission, New Delhi Office, New Delhi", from which office they will be transmitted to the office of the Commission in England.

3. Twelve copies of each memorandum are required in the first instance. Further copies may be called for hereafter, if the proposed Indian Commission are set up in due time.

4. It is most desirable that these memoranda should be delivered to the Office of the Commission as soon as possible, and in any event not later than June 1st next. If for any special reason particular memoranda cannot be delivered till later, the Commission will be glad to be informed of the circumstances and will do its best to deal with them, but the organization of the Commission's enquiry makes it essential that the written material, much of which has doubtless already been prepared, should be promptly presented.

5. The terms of reference under which the Commission is acting are as follows:—

"It is to enquire into the working of the system of Government, the growth of education, and the development of representative institutions, in British India, and matters connected therewith", and it is "in report as to whether and to what extent it is desirable to establish the principle of responsible Government, or to extend, modify, or restrict the degree of responsible Government then existing therein, and under the question whether the establishment of several chambers of the local legislature is or is not desirable".

6. The Commission has already had the advantage of informal interviews with prominent and representative bodies and dignitaries both at Delhi and in several Provinces, and has been much assisted by these interviews in appreciating the nature of some of the main questions which it will shortly begin to investigate.

7. The Appendix to this notice contains a list of some of these topics (though the list does not profess to be exhaustive), and written statements or memoranda are also invited on any other subject within the Commission's terms of reference. It will be understood that those who submit memoranda are not expected or required to deal with all the subjects mentioned in the Appendix but only such of them, or with such other subjects, as specially concern the case they are putting forward.

8. The Commission attaches special importance to the written material which it is now looking for, for in many cases the memorandum will speak for itself, while in other cases the Commission after studying the memorandum (with the assistance of Indian Chambers if these are appended) will intimate whether it desires to hear oral evidence in support of the memorandum and will endeavor to make the most convenient arrangements as to when and where this evidence shall be taken.

9. Every memorandum should be dated and signed by or on behalf of those who present it, and should give the address to which any communication from the Commission regarding it should be sent. As already stated, there will be many cases in which the memoranda submitted will themselves sufficiently answer to the Commission the views of those submitting them, but in cases in which it is desired to refer to the Commission oral evidence in support of any memorandum, the document should end with a clear statement giving the name and address of the witness who will be ready to come forward, if required, for examination and cross-examination.

10. Memoranda submitted in a representative capacity should contain a clear statement of the extent, extent and membership of the organization submitting them. Where a statement is put forward on behalf of a class of persons, the Commission wishes to have a sufficient indication of the number of individuals who actually authorize it.

J. W. HARRIS,
S. F. BROWN,
Secretaries.

(6) Candidates are prohibited from noting down the answer to any queries on the question paper itself.

(7) Any candidate who does not behave properly towards the Chief and Assistant Superintendents of the examination or is suspected of having had recourse to malpractice of any kind is liable to have his examination invalidated and also to be debarred from appearing again for any of the examinations.

(8) Candidates whose names are not in the printed list furnished to the Superintendent must submit a written declaration, through the Superintendent giving full particulars in regard to themselves, including their address, and furnish such evidence as may be possible of their having applied for admission to the examination at the proper time and paid the prescribed fees. The admission of such candidates will not be waived unless it is clear that the omission of their names is due to no fault of theirs.

(9) Candidates desiring to change their place of examination without previous permission, or appearing at any centre other than the one at which they ought to have appeared, must not expect to have their answers valued. Cheques in remittance with any subsequent payment may be referred to the Superintendent of, separately, but are not to be made an excuse for delay or refusal to sign.

18. In addition to any difference in price that may be recoverable from the customers on account of purchases produced hereinafter by failure, neglect, or delay on their part to supply breadstuffs, or on account of the agreement, in fact not exceeding No. 40, may be held as the duration of the default. The expended ingredients of the stipulations of the contract or for other just reasons, he may also send it, notwithstanding the loss estimable by the Jail in consequence of the default, from the security deposited by the contractor, or other moneys due to them, and in the event of any residue, he shall receive it, as aforesaid.

12. All savings found to exist in excess of the respective percentages prescribed in the sub-paragraph will have to be made good by the contractor.
